DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-6, 8-12, 16-24, 26-33, 35, 36, 44-46, 48, 49, 52-58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Haartsen U.S. Patent Number 6,389,057.

Re Claims 1, 27, 40, 44, 52, Paging Unit (base station) selects from a control channel (the first RF resource) from a plurality of channels to transmit a page; the page is received by a Standby unit (the user terminal) to perform synchronization via the selected channel and hopping sequence (See abstract); upon receiving the page message, the standby unit selects a response channel using a hop frequency that corresponds to the hope in which the paging message was received (See col. 10, lines 30-34: a function at the user terminal to determine the hopping sequence) and transmits a response page wherein the selected hop sequence comprises a sequence of RF and hopping sequence (See col. 9, lines 35-60) and used by the Standby unit to transmit the page response page to the paging unit; and upon synchronization of the hopping sequence between the paging and standby unit, data stream is transmitted over the data channel (a second RF resource).

Art Unit: 2616

Re Claims 2, 3, 21, 22, 31, refer to Claim 1, wherein the selected RF and hopping sequence are available.

Re Claims 4, 5, 23, 24, 32, 33, 46, refer to Claim 1, wherein the selected hopping sequence resources comprises of a RF resource that follows a hopping sequence among a set of RF channels/slots (See figures 5-12).

Re Claims 6, 26, 41, 45, refer to Claim 4, wherein a set of CDMA (See col. 5, lines 25-60).

Re Claims 8-12, 28-30, 35, 36, 48, 49, 57, 58, refer to Claim 1, wherein a page message indicates the hop sequence on which the paging unit will be listening and each hop frequency is different for each train. This suggests that the standby unit must select a hop frequency per each train (See col. 10, lines 15-36). Hence, the standby unit (a user terminal) includes a lookup table to select a hop sequence from the page message.

Re Claims 16, 18, refer to Claim 1, wherein upon a page response, the paging unit acknowledges the page response.

Re Claims 17, 19-20, refer to Claim 16, wherein the paging unit identifies the second RF resource in the page message.

Re Claims 53-56, See fig 1, multiple hardware and each hardware controls a spatial channel and availability.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 13-15, 25, 37-39, 50-51 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

In combination with Claims 1 and 13; 18 and 25; 27 and 38; 44, 49, and 50, prior art fails to teach the page message including a page identifier assigned to the user terminal.

4. Claims 40, 41, 43 are allowed

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 5/18/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Re Claims 1, 18, 27, 44, 52, applicant argues that Haartsen fails to teach, "selecting at the user terminal one of multiple hopping sequence resource to transmit a page response,".

Examiner disagrees.

Applicant is directed to fig. 10 wherein the Paging unit (base station) receives Hop sequences 10, 11, 12, 13 from the Standby Unit (the user terminal) in response to the page. Hence, the Standby Unit (the user terminal) does select one of multiple hopping sequences resources.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
